

Department of English: Literary Mavens Club

The Literary Mavens Club was launched as the language forum of the Department of English in 2022. It aims to function as a platform for the students of mLAC to widen their horizons in the field of language and literature. The club offers a student-led, student-friendly environment to showcase their talents and passions, develop their communication and interpersonal skills, enrich their creative abilities, and provide opportunities to broaden their perspective on themselves and the world around them.

Literary Mavens organises various events for its members, including book and film review events, poetry-writing, short story contests, games and puzzles. Burn the Sheets, the discussion and writing forum, is a weekly event.

Kairos, the flagship fest, was first conducted in 2024 as an inter-collegiate event and continues as an inter-departmental fest this year. The club has also conducted extension activities, such as a day of teaching and interaction with students of the government school in Vajarahalli in 2023. The club therefore aims to sensitise students to diversity and help them embrace language and literature as a powerful medium for alternative thinking.

In 2025, Literary Mavens launched its theatre wing, Act and Ink, to encourage students to participate in drama in all its facets: acting, scriptwriting, directing and stage management. It aims to introduce and promote awareness of theatre as an influential art form, while also exposing students to the reading and performance of English theatre.
